Specialized accreditation produces well-prepared graduates

Bates Technical College’s Dental Assisting program was the nation’s first technical college to earn American Dental Association accreditation in 1962, and they’ve maintained the accreditation for the past 53 years. So, how important is it for programs to hold industry-specific accreditation?

Graduating from an accredited program ensures that students have successfully completed career-specific requirements set by the dental profession, said Dental Assisting program instructor Teri Amundsen.

In addition to the college’s accreditation from the NWCCU*, many Bates programs hold industry-specific accreditation. These specialized accreditations mean that the programs meet or exceed professional standards.

Read more about our specialized program accreditations at The Insider, at www.batestechnicalblog.org.

*The Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities (NWCCU) is an independent, non-profit membership organization recognized by the U.S. Department of Education as the regional authority on educational quality and institutional effectiveness of higher education institutions in the Northwest.

Mastering shears and shaves, Davis makes the cut

Shortly after he graduated from high school in 2001, Jerohl Davis pursued a career in construction. Though it paid well, Jerohl said it was hard to keep busy year-round.

“I had to work in the elements: rain, hail, sleet, snow. When I thought of the barbers I knew, they were all real cool guys who carried a certain swagger. They stayed dry all day, with work year-round,” he said. As a boy, Jerohl never considered becoming a barber.

“I just wanted to be successful in life, but we all have gifts or talents in us that spawn at different times. I’ve come to find being a barber is one of mine, and the time is now,” he said.

Jerohl had always loved the atmosphere of a barber shop, and had some experience giving haircuts to his friends and cousins, so he decided to change his career.

He first learned of the Bates Barber program from his barber. Then, he conducted his own research.

He discovered a common theme. Everyone he spoke with told him that Bates had the best barber program in Washington state.

Bates’ Barber program prepares students to become licensed barbers, and they learn all aspects of the profession. Theory, basic techniques, communications, math for barbers, and other courses help provide a well-rounded education that complements the hands-on style of learning the college is known for.

“Even people who weren’t barbers knew the instructor, Jeff Olson and said Bates was the place to be. So after all my footwork, I learned Bates was by far on top of the list when I decided which college to attend,” said Jerohl.

A winter quarter graduate, Jerohl now works at the Auburn Valley Barber Shop. His ultimate goal is to own a barber shop.

Jerohl recognizes that “understanding and mastering the grind of the craft has to come first. I plan to work at a shop long enough to polish all rough edges, then, one day open a shop of my own. I’ll employ others and help give them a way to provide for their families.”

“Bates taught me skills that I will take with me for the rest of my life.”
Throughout the three-quarter program, students gain real-world experience working in the college’s barber shop at the Downtown Campus. When they successfully complete their education, students earn a Certificate of Competency and can sit for the state licensure exam.

When the 32-year-old reflected on his experience at Bates, he said, “I was able to learn techniques to polish my craft. Class was a lot of fun—but not just fun, it took hard work and discipline to accomplish my goals. The instructor is one of the best. Some people had never picked up a pair of clippers before they entered the program, and now they are successful barbers because of Mr. Olson.”

Even though he was dedicated to learning his craft, he experienced some hurdles. Jerohl credits the college’s support services for helping to see him through some tough financial circumstances during his education.

“It’s hard to go back to school as an adult, and still keep up with what life brings,” said Jerohl. “There were times when I thought I wasn’t going to be able to finish for financial reasons, but Bates worked with me every step of the way and helped make this dream possible. Bates has given me a new career and taught me skills that I will take with me for the rest of my life,” he added.

Financial aid demystified

Shirley Mingo, a Financial Aid Specialist II at Bates Technical College, is a 2002 graduate of Bates’ Administrative Office Assistant program. She began her career at the college in 2000, and has worked in a variety of departments, including IT and registration. She has also held positions at Central/Mohler and South Campuses before working at the Downtown Campus in 2004.

Shirley notes how much she enjoyed her work in each position, but what she enjoys the most is working with students and her colleagues.

The communications/marketing office recently sat down with Shirley to talk about what students need to know when they apply for financial aid.

Q: What types of financial aid do you offer?
A: We offer Title IV Financial Aid, Federal Direct Stafford Loans and workstudy.

Please note: Financial aid decreases for spring and summer quarters.

Funding for awarding our last quarter of summer grant assistance can be limited. Students should review award letters carefully to ensure they have enough to cover their cost to attend.

Q: Is there an application for financial aid?
A: Yes, for grants, there is the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The FAFSA application needs to be done yearly. You can find the FAFSA online at www.fafsa.gov.
To apply for loans, there is a two-step application process that is also done annually. To download the loan application, as well as other financial aid forms, go to Bates Technical College’s Financial Aid forms directory at www.bates.ctc.edu/FAForms.

Q: Do you have a financial aid deadline?
A: Yes. Summer quarter deadline was April 15, 2015; fall quarter deadline is June 8. Students who meet the deadline will have funding within the first two weeks of the quarter. We will still continue to take forms after the deadline; however, late forms will delay a student from receiving financial-aid funding. If eligibility is known, we can place a hold on tuition.

Q: Will you match another college’s financial aid offer?
A: We award what a student is eligible for based on eligibility from their Student Aid Report. We don’t match other college’s financial aid offers.
